IUH worked with local authorities in Dong Thap, Bac Lieu and Ben Tre provinces to carry out the 2025 Green Summer Campaign with many key projects.
In Dong Thap: Marking the 7th consecutive year of accompanying An Phu Thuan commune (Chau Thanh district), IUH students renovated the memorial stele house and the commune People's Committee office, and directly helped residents access online public services and digital applications.
In Bac Lieu: The volunteer team focused on leveling ground, excavating and improving walkways, helping upgrade rural transport infrastructure for local residents.
In Ben Tre: In Vinh Binh commune (Cho Lach district), the 'Green Warriors' repainted and refurbished spacious classrooms to welcome students into the new school year.
This close coordination helps localities complete infrastructure, accelerate digital transformation and strengthen the bonds of goodwill between IUH and the community.

Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City issued the Regulations on the organization and operation of the Science and Training Council under Decision No. 47/QĐ-ĐHCN dated 13 May 2020. The Council advises the Rector on matters related to training, science and technology, and education quality assurance. Its advice covers plans for developing training and scientific research; developing and amending professional regulations; developing, implementing or discontinuing training programs; commenting on reports on training and research and assessing units' performance. The Regulations provide a basis for professional consultation, academic exchange and consideration of issues related to science and training development in the University. This is a mechanism supporting academic activity and professional input; it should be combined with regulations on research and teaching autonomy to fully demonstrate the academic freedom requirement.

Activity description

Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City issued the Regulations on the working regime for lecturers. The document specifies duties, working-time quotas, standard teaching hours, scientific research, and conversion of professional activities into administrative hours for lecturer titles, including lecturers on probation, trial employment and teaching assistants. The Regulations are the basis for the University to assign work and manage staff, support training units in inspection and capacity-building, and serve as the basis for public, transparent annual emulation assessment and ranking. Besides standardizing concepts of standard hours, workload quotas and workload conversion, the document details 10 duties of teaching assistants (grade III) and the teaching, examination, curriculum development and learning-material compilation duties of lecturers (grade III). The document is supporting evidence for staff management and implementation of the working regime at IUH; the specific quotas should be cross-checked to determine how far lecturers meet their workload in teaching, scientific research and community service.

Activity description

Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City issued the 2025 Credit-based Training Regulations to govern the organization and management of undergraduate training. The Regulations set out requirements for training programs, detailed course outlines, teaching content, learning organization methods and assessment of students' learning results. During course delivery, the responsible lecturer records and assesses students' results according to the prescribed components and requirements. The Regulations are the basis for lecturers to carry out teaching, fulfil professional responsibilities and ensure consistency in training. Developing and implementing detailed course outlines also creates a framework for lecturers' professional activity linked to the objectives, learning outcomes and requirements of the training program.

Activity description

On 29 February 2024, the Council of Rectors of universities in Ho Chi Minh City held a conference to review 2023 activities and set out tasks for 2024. The city currently has 57 higher education institutions, which play an important role in policy advice and in training a high-quality workforce, although some limitations remain in connecting disciplines and in digital platforms.

Entering 2024, the Council focuses on carrying out science and technology tasks commissioned by the City People's Committee, centered on the project to train internationally qualified human resources in 8 key fields, operating the shared university model and promoting digital transformation in management.

In his directive speech, Chairman of the City People's Committee Phan Văn Mãi asked the Department of Science and Technology to soon issue a set of criteria for “entrepreneurial universities” to provide a basis for support and investment, and to guide the building of innovation and startup centers at universities. In particular, the City affirmed it is ready to invest in forming centers of excellence at universities, seeing this as a key solution to make HCMC an internationally prominent training hub.

Activity description

On 10 November 2023, Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH) opened the International Scientific Conference "Sustainable Energy Technologies" (ICSET 2023), in cooperation with Vietnamese-German University, Ho Chi Minh City University of Technology and the HCMC Department of Science and Technology. The conference ran from 9 to 11 November 2023, attracting more than 400 delegates, scientists, lecturers and students from Vietnam and abroad. With 86 selected scientific papers, the program focused on advanced technologies for energy conversion, new energy, energy storage, thermal management and technical solutions for sustainable development. The conference promoted research cooperation, knowledge exchange and multidisciplinary expert networking, creating a scientific basis for research and application of efficient, environmentally friendly energy technologies. The activity shows IUH's role in linking science and technology with sustainable development goals.

The article reflects the linking of scientific and technological knowledge with production practice through a forum between the University and 09 inventors from various localities. At the program, IUH lecturers, scientists and experts exchanged views on and advised about technical solutions, product design refinement, motor selection, parameter measurement, financial management, marketing and intellectual property protection. The University also proposed support in personnel, professional knowledge, equipment and funding to promote applied research and technology transfer for agricultural production. The activity shows IUH's role in professional consulting, expert networking and supporting innovation, helping solve practical difficulties of inventors and local communities. This is reference evidence of IUH's knowledge transfer and expert consulting; however, the article does not directly show consulting provided at the request of a state agency.

The article reflects the scientific research, knowledge exchange and expert networking of Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH) through the 3rd International Conference on Advanced Technologies for Sustainable Development (ICATSD 2026). The conference took place from 8 to 10 October 2026, attracting 708 authors from 15 countries and territories; 143 papers were selected for publication after peer review. Notably, representatives of the Department of Science, Technology and Digital Transformation, Ministry of Industry and Trade attended. Discussions focused on digital transformation, renewable energy, smart manufacturing, the circular economy and emission reduction, linking scientific research with sustainable development requirements. The activity promotes connections among the University, scientists, businesses and state management agencies, creating opportunities to exchange technological solutions for practical use.

In 2022, Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH), in coordination with the Industry Agency – Ministry of Industry and Trade, carried out the Production Improvement Program for textile and garment enterprises in the Central and North Central regions. The program focused on training human resources, technical consulting and supporting enterprises in applying solutions to improve production processes, productivity, product quality and resource efficiency. Through training and hands-on guidance, participants gained knowledge and skills in production management, technical improvement and improving the quality of the working environment. The program helped enterprises reduce costs, optimize production, and improve management capacity and market competitiveness. It also shows IUH's role in transferring knowledge, applying research results and providing science and technology services, accompanying enterprises toward sustainable development.

Activity description

On 22 December 2023, the Institute of Biotechnology and Food Technology, Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH) held a seminar to survey the state of production facilities and develop procedures for collecting and preserving samples for metagenomics research of the microbiome in traditional fish sauce and soybean paste. The activity is part of a Protocol-based research project, focusing on surveying actual production processes, collecting samples and developing suitable preservation methods for microbiome analysis. Through the seminar, scientists, experts and producers exchanged experience, shared information and agreed on research methods. The results provide a scientific basis for analyzing the microbiome, controlling fermentation, stabilizing quality and preserving the distinctive character of traditional products, while promoting the application of biotechnology in food production.

The Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH), in collaboration with the University of Naples Federico II, Italy, conducted research on microbial communities in traditional Vietnamese fish sauce fermentation using metagenomics technology. The study analyzed microbial diversity and their roles throughout fermentation, identifying key microorganisms such as Tetragenococcus halophilus. The findings provide scientific insights into fermentation processes, supporting quality control, product consistency, and preservation of the distinctive characteristics of traditional fish sauce. Published in Applied Food Research in 2026, the research highlights IUH's scientific capabilities, international collaboration, and contributions to biotechnology and sustainable food production.

Activity description

A research team of Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH), led by Dr. Phạm Thị Hồng Phượng, researched and developed a process for producing fabric yarns from banana and pineapple fibers, combined with dyeing using natural color compounds, for the garment industry. The research focuses on using banana stems and post-harvest agricultural by-products to extract and process fibers into high-value textile materials. The results help diversify raw material sources for the textile and garment industry, reduce dependence on traditional materials, and limit waste and environmental pollution. The use of natural dyes also contributes to developing environmentally friendly materials in line with green production and circular economy trends. The research shows IUH's innovation and science-and-technology application capacity, opening prospects for cooperation with businesses, technology transfer and commercialization.

At the 4th Ho Chi Minh City Green Growth Products and Services Showcase (GRECO 2026), Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH) presented research results and products applying technology to convert agricultural by-products into value-added materials. The research team, represented by Dr. Phạm Thị Hồng Phượng, displayed samples of pineapple fiber, coconut fiber, banana fiber and fabric dyed with natural colors for the textile and garment industry. The products were developed from by-product raw materials through research and processing, helping use resources, reduce waste and promote the circular economy. The activity drew interest from partners in Vietnam, Japan and Korea, opening opportunities for cooperation, application and commercialization of research results. It was also an occasion for IUH to promote its science and technology capacity and innovation and contribute to green and sustainable development goals.

Activity description

On 10 October 2025, Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH) held a national scientific workshop themed “Law and policy on protecting the rights and interests of individuals and citizens: 50 years of building and development”, attracting nearly 300 delegates from training and research institutions and management agencies. The workshop provided an academic forum for experts, scientists, lecturers and students to exchange, critique and share different perspectives on human rights, citizens' rights, judicial reform and contemporary legal issues. By encouraging open dialogue and respecting diversity of views and scientific argument, IUH helps build a neutral, respectful and constructive discussion environment where parties can discuss common issues in an academic spirit. The activity promotes a culture of dialogue, mutual understanding and the SDG 16 values of peace, justice and strong institutions.

Activity description

Industrial University of Ho Chi Minh City (IUH) held a 2025 national scientific workshop on digital technology, the digital economy and related legal issues, creating an academic forum connecting scientists, legal experts, representatives of state management agencies, businesses and lecturers. The workshop encouraged exchange, critique and sharing of multidimensional perspectives on artificial intelligence, human rights, technology governance policy and legal challenges in the context of digital transformation. Through academic dialogue, IUH helps build an open discussion environment that respects differing views and upholds scientific argument and cooperation among stakeholders. The activity promotes a constructive culture of dialogue, strengthens mutual understanding and contributes to SDG 16 on peace, justice and strong institutions.

PERFORMANCE BENCHMARKING

Benchmarking Results Against THE Impact Ratings 2026 (Previous Cycle vs. Current Audit Cycle)

SDG 16
PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

Indicator Category	Previous Cycle (THE 2026)	Current Audit (THE 2027)	Strategic Evolution & Outlook
Category 16.2 University Governance Measures (23% Weight)	Elected representation clauses existed in statutes but lacked election audit trails; academic freedom and ethics policies were dispersed.	Verified University Council with elected student rep; successfully staged Trade Union & Party Congresses; publicly disclosed 2024 financial audits.	Governance Institutionalization: Fully satisfied all 7/7 governance criteria across democratic representation, finance, and anti-corruption.
Category 16.3 Working with Government (27% Weight)	Policy consultations were ad-hoc; lacked high-level ministerial research contracts and dedicated neutral multi-stakeholder debate spaces.	Active in HCMC Rectors' Council; organized 2 National Conferences on Citizens' Rights & Digital Law; executed 2 MOIT supporting industry research contracts.	Policy-Level Transformation: Solidified status as a premier advisory think-tank delivering evidence-based inputs to central legislative organs.
Metric 16.4 Graduates in Law & Enforcement (23% Weight)	Law graduate headcounts were informally collated; lacked verified reconciliation against total university graduates per ISCED standards.	Audited headcount: 323 Law graduates out of 9,007 total graduates (3.59%), with verified accreditation certificates and ministry codes.	Audited Metric Compliance: Confirmed verified institutional capacity in supplying ethically trained legal human resources for civil enforcement.
Metric 16.1 Research & Scopus Publications (27% Weight)	Peer-reviewed publications on institutional governance, economic law, and human rights had modest international citation footprint.	Expanded interdisciplinary Scopus/WoS output in digital law frameworks, AI ethics, corporate governance, and circular economy compliance.	Academic Impact Uplift: Marked increase in Field-Weighted Citation Impact (FWCI) and international co-authorship addressing SDG 16 themes.

STRATEGIC PLAN FOR THE COMING YEAR
Four High-Impact Action Pillars to Position SDG 16 as a Premier Scoring Asset for IUH's Global Rank

SDG 16
PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

1. CODIFYING DEMOCRATIC GOVERNANCE & INTEGRITY CHARTERS

- Enact the 'IUH Democratic Governance & Institutional Integrity Framework 2026–2030', expanding participatory oversight.
- Form the independent University Academic Freedom & Scientific Ethics Committee safeguarding faculty research autonomy.
- Enforce an institution-wide Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) for confidential grievance redress and whistleblower non-retaliation.
- Mandate binding Integrity Pacts across 100% of public procurement tenders, vendor contracts, and staff recruitment procedures.

2. TRANSPARENT DATA GOVERNANCE & INDEPENDENT FINANCIAL AUDITS

- Launch the dedicated 'IUH Governance & Transparency Hub' on tqa.iuh.edu.vn publicly hosting all council resolutions, budgets, and audits.
- Execute annual external financial audits by accredited firms, publishing full unqualified audit opinions and balance sheets online.
- Digitize Law graduate headcounts (Indicator 16.4.1) within the ERP database to automate ISCED-compliant FTE auditing.
- Migrate 100% of internal Google Drive evidence to official, publicly verifiable web articles embedding scanned institutional seals.

3. HIGH-LEVEL POLICY ADVISORY & GOVERNMENT CO-RESEARCH

- Amplify advisory leadership in the HCMC Rectors' Council, contributing directly to regional workforce and innovation policy design.
- Commission the Faculty of Law to lead at least 2 ministerial policy research projects on digital economy law and AI regulatory sandboxes.
- Sign recurring policy co-research agreements with the Ministry of Industry and Trade, municipal DOSTs, and regional authorities.
- Institutionalize the annual publication of 'IUH Policy Briefs' delivered directly to National Assembly delegates and provincial councils.

4. NEUTRAL DIALOGUE PLATFORM & STUDENT LEGAL AID CLINIC

- Formalize the 'IUH Multi-Stakeholder Academic Forum' providing a safe, politically neutral space for evidence-based policy debates.
- Establish the student-led 'IUH Legal Aid Clinic' delivering pro-bono legal consultation to underprivileged local communities.
- Deliver executive training workshops on public sector digital transformation and legislative impact assessment for municipal civil servants.
- Fund Scopus Q1/Q2 research chairs focused on judicial reform, institutional anti-corruption mechanisms, and public sector transparency.
